

A Class in 2099

Imagine what school will be like in the year 2099. Write a description of your ideas for a future school using modal verbs and adverbs of possibility to explain what the school might be like. Use the following questions to help you think about what to write:

- How will children in the future get to school?
- What lessons will they study?
- How many will be in each class?
- What will they do at break and lunch times?
- What will they eat?
- What will they do their work on? Tablets, laptops or something else?
- Who will teach the children of the future? A person, a robot or even an alien?

Use these modal verbs and adverbs of possibility to help you. Underline them in your writing.

modal verbs	can, could, should, must, ought, may, would, might, will.
adverbs of possibility	certainly, definitely, obviously, sometimes, probably, maybe, perhaps, never, rarely.
