

Name: _____ Date: _____

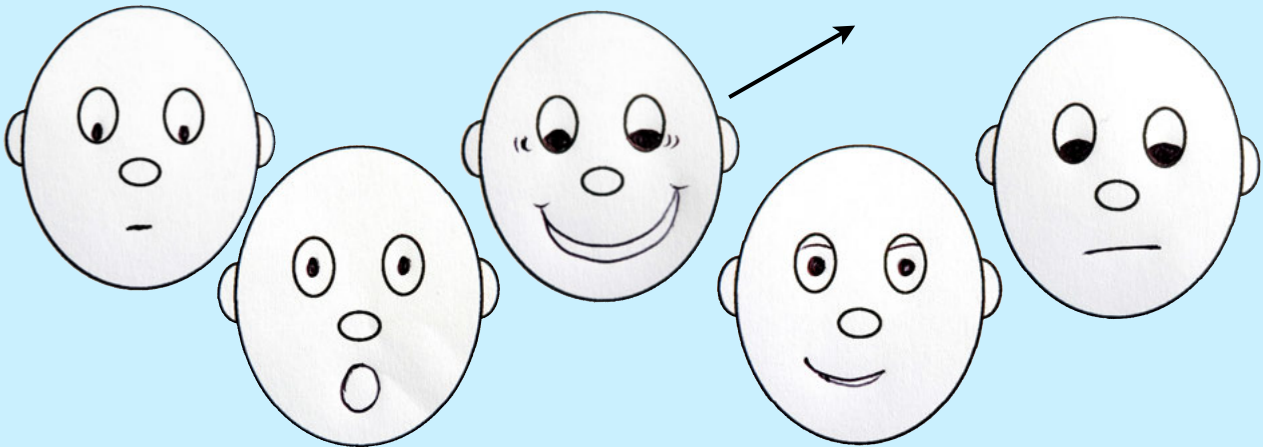

Use these blank faces to experiment with different ways of using facial features to make facial expressions.

There are lots of different ways you can use facial features to create different facial expressions...

MOUTHS: Changing the shape of the mouth is one of these easiest ways to change a facial expression.

You could try using laughter lines in different places around the eyes when someone is smiling.

EYEBROWS:

Experiment with changing the position and angle of the eyebrows. How many different kinds of expressions can you create?

Try placing the eyeballs in different positions within the eyes.

EYELIDS:

Showing the eyelids both on the top and bottom can help to show what someone is feeling. How does the position of these eyelids change the facial expression?

